

LA's Housing Standstill

It is virtually impossible to get anything built in Los Angeles in less than five years.

That is disastrous for people who need affordable housing.

The city says homelessness is an emergency, but it sure doesn't act like it.

Whether it's DWP bringing in power or getting plans approved - nobody's in a hurry.

But, if we are to tackle homelessness, we need urgency.

1,500 PEOPLE DIE ON THE STREETS EVERY YEAR.
